Compositions (Ice) (2008/2010)

"Compositions" is a contemplative cycle of photographs depicting abstract forms of landscape. The first part of the project entitled "Ice" reveals a frozen monochromatic world. The series was created in 2008, during trip to Iceland, as part of activity of Muzungu-art (group created with Tomasz Śliwiński).

"The feeling evoked by photographs may be defined as a mixture of friendly calmness and hidden fear lying behind it. The contemplative views depicting nature calm down and stimulate at the same time. Another intellectual trace – the loftiness described by Edward Burke and in particular Immanuel Kant."

Justyna Ryczek "The (icy) melancholy of image" (fragment)
